JONES FOOLS THE "OLD MAN."

In a thriving country village down in Massachusetts, a highly respected and extremely pious old gentleman conducts a weekly newspaper during the week and on Sundays discourses his religious views from the pulpit of the local Presbyterian church. In addition to these duties he is an arduous and indefatigable worker against the liquor traf-

One sultry afternoon in midsummer, his office force of three,—pressman, compositor and "devil"—were regaling themselves with a quart bottle of beer, secured from the local liquor dispensary across the

Jones, the pressman, was just taking his turn at the bottle, meanwhile keeping his eyes riveted on the door around the corner of the big press. Noting the entrance of the "old man," he signalled a warning to his companions, and with rare presence of mind, siezed the type brush, and sprinkling it liberally with the beer, began to industri-ously scrub the form on the bed of the press.

The "old man" at once scenthe fact that he had on several fess. occasions made the proud boast that "not a drop of the vile stuff had ever passed his lips."

With "blood in his eye" he advanced upon the scene fully determined to make a horrible example of the offender. Judge of his surprise, when he witnessed the unruffled Jones the foamy suds, every now and ey." then dashing a new supply onto the dripping brush.

"What does this mean Jones?" "Well, sir, we've been having lots of trouble on this run keeping the type from filling up. I tried everything I knew without striking a remedy, until I happened to think that I once beer was a fine thing to use on a sultry day-' is ready to mail. It will seems to any person interested in fruit-growing on receipt a 7 cents to cover postage. The Stark Year Book for 1910 represents an entirely new idea in nurserymen's literature—it is a work of art as well as a catalogue of Stark Nursery products. Within its covers are 32 full-page illustrations of fruits and flowers, representing 175 varieties, done in four colors, and exactly reproducing nature. S4 pages are devoted to descriptions, prices, and records.

Stark Delicious, the apple that has revolutionized orchard planting and established a new standard of apple values (selling at $10.00 per bushel box this year); Stark King David, another apple of wondrous quality and merit; Stark King Philip, a hardy black grape of California grape quality, and dozens of the very best things in the horticultural world are fully described, illustrated, and priced.

To any one planting one tree or many, of fruits or ornamental, this book is of inestimable value—a horticultural text-book—a guide to proper selection.

Stark trees have stood the supreme test of actual planting for 85 years—they are the yard-stick by which all other nursery products are measured—they are the first choice of this country's most successful orchardists. The success of the orchard is dependent on the kind and quality of tree planted. Stark varieties are the best of the best. Our record of 85 years of successful selling is a positive guarantee of tree quality.
